Date: 26 June 2025

Venue: SNDT College of Education, Pune

Introduction

Rajarshi Shahu Maharaj Jayanti was celebrated with great enthusiasm on 26 June 2025 at SNDT College of Education, Pune. The event was organized to honor the visionary leader who dedicated his life to the upliftment of marginalized communities and promoted education for all.

Rajarshi Chhatrapati Shahu Maharaj (1874–1922), the ruler of the princely state of Kolhapur, was a visionary social reformer and a pioneer of social justice in India. Known as the "Rajarshi" or "saint king," he dedicated his reign to the upliftment of the marginalized and backward sections of society. In 1902, he implemented one of India's first affirmative action policies by reserving 50% of government jobs for the backward castes—a revolutionary step towards social equality. He strongly believed in the power of education and introduced free and compulsory primary education, established hostels for different communities, promoted girls' education, and offered scholarships, including for overseas studies. Shahu Maharaj was also committed to economic development, supporting cooperative movements, building irrigation systems like the Radhanagari Dam, and encouraging industrial ventures. He worked to eradicate caste discrimination by ensuring equal access to schools, hospitals, and temples for Dalits, and challenged the monopoly of Brahmins in religious practices. A patron of arts, sports, and culture, he also championed women's rights through educational initiatives and social reforms. His policies laid the foundation for modern reservation systems and deeply influenced leaders like Dr. B.R. Ambedkar. Shahu Maharaj remains a symbol of progressive leadership and social justice in Indian history.
